

Market research interviewers required for:

Heathrow Airport

Are you a good communicator, who enjoys interacting with members of the public? If yes, then a job as an airport market research interviewer could be for you.

Epinion is an international market Research agency with teams of market research interviewers working in many airports throughout the world. We are currently recruiting for our interviewing teams at Heathrow Airport.

The work involves carrying out face to face interviews with passengers on subjects such as their satisfaction with their airport visit, what they did whilst at the airport and other passenger related topics. All interviews are carried out in person, usually on iPads with passengers inside the airport after security (airside) and at the gates before departure.

The work is part-time therefore someone able to work a minimum of 13 shifts per month, a typical shift duration is 7 hours. Candidates should be able to work both weekday and weekend shifts and early morning (start time 5am) and late evening shifts (end time 11pm) when required.

In addition, candidates should: -

- speak fluent English
- have good mobility as the job involves moving around all areas of the airport
- have a polite, professional manner and presentable appearance
- be able to use an iPad

As applicants will be working in security cleared areas, all will be required to have a full CRB check and must be legally able to work in the UK

Starting salary: £9.36 per hour plus £1.12 per hour holiday pay

A uniform and canteen pass will be provided for this role.
